UNESCO Global Geoparks celebrating EARTH DAY 2018

End Plastic Pollution!

From poisoning and injuring marine life to disrupting human hormones, from littering our geological heritage treasures and landscapes, beaches and coasts to clogging our waste streams and wetlands, karst systems and landfills, the exponential growth of plastics is now threatening the survival of our planet.

Earth Day 2018

Sunday 22 April

globalgeoparksnetwork.org

In response, UNESCO Global Geoparks celebrate Earth Day 2018 organizing a variety of activities to enhance the international value of Earth Heritage, to promote UNESCO Global Geoparks as learning platforms on sustainable development and focus on fundamentally changing people's attitudes and behaviours about plastics and sparking a significant reduction in plastic pollution.

UNESCO Global Geoparks share the Earth's Day Campaign and strategy to End Plastic Pollution to:

- Educate and mobilize citizens across the globe to respect the Earth heritage sites, landscapes and environment and to demand action to control and diminish plastic pollution
- Inform and activate citizens to take personal responsibility for the plastic pollution that each of us generates by choosing to reject, reduce, reuse and recycle plastics
- Work with universities, school teachers and students to End Plastic Pollution
- Work within the Global Geoparks Network and its Regional and National Geopark Networks and other organizations promoting the control of plastic use developing resources that others can use and build partnerships.

The Global Geoparks Network will promote the celebration of Earth Day, April 22, 2018 in UNESCO Global Geoparks by organizing a variety of events and promotional activities across all continents .activating their networks including primary and secondary students and teachers to join UNESCO Global Geoparks in activities to celebrate Earth heritage, inspire citizens for the responsible use of our resources and reduce plastic use to save our Natural environment!

Please join the campaign and organize your own Geopark event on EARTH DAY!
